Cultural Resource Management Positions

Timmins Martelle Heritage Consultants Inc. is now accepting applications for personnel for the 2013 field season.

We are currently looking to hire individuals who can fill full-time, seasonal positions as:

- * archaeological field technicians and supervisors;
- * report writers

Applicants should have some training in or knowledge of archaeological field and laboratory methods. Experience in cultural resource management is highly desirable but not mandatory.

Applicants interested in the position of Archaeological Field Supervisor must possess an Anthropology/Archaeology (or related discipline) degree, a valid Professional or Research Licence to supervise archaeological fieldwork in Ontario, and a valid driver's licence.

Applicants will participate in archaeological projects throughout southern Ontario and should be prepared for some overnight travel. All projects will be run out of our London office. Field staff will be transported to site and paid their full wage for travel. Some fieldwork will be conducted jointly with First Nations groups. First Nations students are also encouraged to apply.
