

An Evening of Christian Tolerance & Inclusivity

Thursday 22 March, 6:00 p.m.

St. Jerome's University's Siegfried Hall

Join us for libations and sweets at 6:00 p.m.

Professor Jacqueline Murray (University of Guelph) then delivers a talk aimed at contextualizing and historicizing Christian tolerance.

Following the talk, we will screen the SMF student produced documentary, “BeInclusive!,” which examines inclusivity on the UW campus.

Jacqueline Murray is a renowned medieval historian and former Dean of Arts at the University of Guelph. She is a faculty member in the History Department and currently serves as Director of First Year Seminars. Her historical scholarship focuses in particular on theological and cultural ideas about gender, sexuality, marriage, and family.

***

This event is co-sponsored by the SJU Office of the Vice-President and Academic Dean, the Medieval Studies program, the St. Jerome's Library, the department of Sexuality, Marriage, and Family Studies, and by the department of Religious Studies.