ALUNA THEATRE'S International Festival of Theatre for Human Rights presents:

4 International Theatre / Performance Workshops

Dance Puppet Theatre

A one-of-a-kind opportunity to experience the coming together of dance, theatre and puppetry in a truly interdisciplinary workshop with acclaimed director, dancer, choreographer and puppet designer Federico Restrepo (Colombia via New York). Participants will be able to work with puppets 15 feet tall.

May 7 – 11, 10am – 3pm $350

Performance Art: The Body: Territory and Border

This is performance art at its best. Violeta Luna (Mexico via San Francisco) from the acclaimed La Pocha Nostra, the Conceptual Institute of Hybrid Art in San Francisco, explores the relationship between theatre, performance art and community engagement in this highly physical and daring workshop.

May 22 – 24, 2pm – 6pm $200

Playwright Workshop Getting Close to the Scene

Carlos Satizábal (Associate Professor, Universidad Nacional) returns to Toronto for a third time to teach his popular workshop based on the Colombian Collective Creation from the famous experimental La Candelaria Theatre in Bogotá. Explore dramaturgical approaches to create alternative, socially motivated theatre.

May 18 from 6-9pm, May 19 & 20 from 10-4pm, May 21 from 6-9pm $250

Collective Creation- La Pasarela (The Catwalk)

Patricia Ariza, one of the most important women in Latin American Theatre graces Toronto bringing together women artists from all disciplines, from all walks of life including refugees to create a 50 minute piece on the Status of Canadian Women. To ensure accessibility to professional development for women, this special reduced rate of $125 is made possible with the support of Nightwood Theatre.* May 21st to 26th: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday 10am to 3pm, Thursday 2pm to 6pm, Saturday 2pm to 5pm

– made possible with the support of:
